FOR THE SENIORS, by Stephanie Caudill

Growing up is just around the corner;
Giving up our youth is a challenge.

Each day, each month, each year.

When did we stop wanting to change
From younger to older?
When did the change arrive
So quickly in a year that should be longer?

Each day, each month, each year.

Our hearts have been broken by
First loves
Friendships
Disappointments.

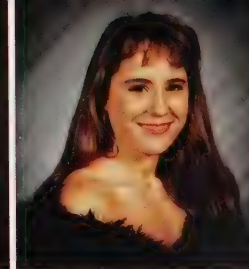

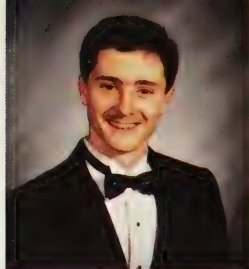

Each new hurt has brought
New strengths
New ideas
Courage
To travel to the end.

Each day, each month, each year.

Now it's time to face tomorrow,
But yesterday tempts us to cling to the past.
Remember,
Tomorrow brings
New loves,
New Friendships
Even new disappointments.
But stronger we will be Because. . .

Each day, each month, each year
We face tomorrow head on.

SENIOR CLASS

OF 1994

SENIOR GOOD-BYE

As we walked down the halls as Eighth Graders we looked around taking everything in, greatly anticipating the years ahead. What memories would we have? What paths would we take? What would the next five years hold for us?

Five years later, the class of 1994 walks down the same halls soaking in every scene. We etch in our minds a remembrance of this school. Looking back over the many memories we have had here. Throughout the past five years, the Senior Class has gone their separate ways only to come back together with a strong connection that binds us always. As the 1993-94 school year progressed, fights and animosities toward one another became unimportant. We formed a bond not to be broken to help us survive the year. We came together as a united front to be there for one another. As the end of the year came closer, some realized that they were too busy with other things and that time was running out. Each person was cherished, with the lingering thought within all of us that our days here were now numbered. We clung to each memory trying not to forget even the smallest detail, and we desperately strove to create a few more memories to take with us.

The journey to become adults is now upon us, leaving our days as high school students fading fast. Don't spend your time feeling great animosity toward one another because your time here is limited. Hold even the smallest memories you have here sacred; someday they'll mean the world to you. We don't have another chance to change things, but you still have years ahead of you. Please don't take them for granted.

The class of 1994 will gather for the last time on June 3, 1994 to say farewell to all we hold so dear. From this day forward it will be only our memories that holds us together. On this day we must all part and say goodbye. We will no longer be here, so this along with our memories, we leave to you as our legacy!!!!
